

Barcaldine First Nations Tourism Consultation & Workshop

Welcome to the Barcaldine First Nations Tourism Plan Consultation and Workshop

Do you have a vision for First Nations tourism and would like your voice to be heard in the development of the Queensland First Nations Tourism Plan and the Outback Queensland First Nations Tourism Plan?

Or are you a start-up or established business looking to diversify into tourism? Maybe you're an artist, a weaver, a Ranger, or have an interest in native foods that can all feed into tourism. If you want to learn more about tourism and the opportunities for communities to get involved, please come along and join us for a day filled with learning, yarning, and connecting.

The Queensland Tourism Industry Council (QTIC), the Department of the Environment, Tourism, Science and Innovation (DETSI) and the Our Country Advisory Service (OCAS) are bringing together tourism operators, stakeholders and community members from Barcaldine and surrounding areas to discuss future strategies and opportunities for shaping the next iteration of the Queensland First Nations Tourism Plan. The session focuses on meaningful dialogue around collaboration, cultural integrity and sustainable cultural tourism development. Participants will be invited to contribute ideas and feedback that will help inform the future direction of the state's First Nations Tourism Plan.

Please RSVP to the session you're attending – you can choose both!

At the workshop you can yarn with:

- Queensland tourism peak industry body to contribute to the development of the Queensland First Nations Tourism Plan
- Regional and local tourism bodies Outback Qld Tourism Association and Barcaldine Regional Council
- Government and Industry tourism workers and experts, learn more about tourism and development opportunities
- Disaster and crisis experts, find out how you can protect your business and build disaster resilience.

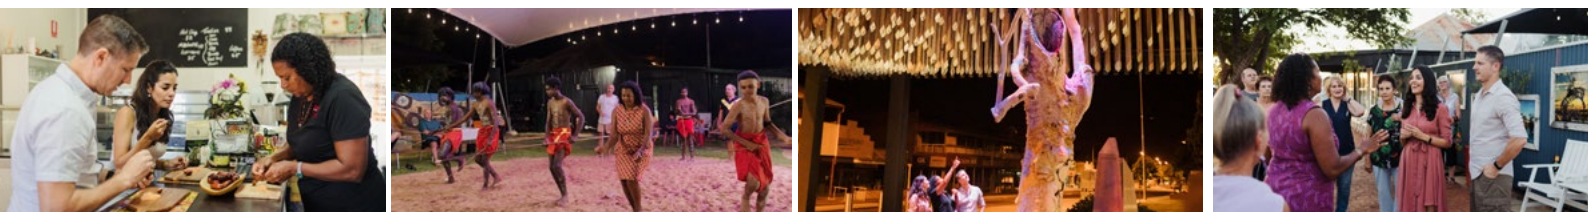

Don't miss out, register now.
